

Diverticulitis Food Chart

FOODS TO EAT

High-Fiber Foods

Whole Grains:

- Whole wheat bread
- Quinoa
- Brown rice
- Oats

Fruits And Vegetables:

- Apples
- Spinach
- Berries (strawberries, blueberries)
- Bananas
- Broccoli

Legumes (Beans, Lentils):

- Black beans
- Chickpeas
- Lentils

Nuts And Seeds:

- Almonds
- Chia seeds

Lean Proteins

Skinless Poultry:

- Chicken breast
- Turkey

Fish:

- Salmon
- Tuna

Eggs

- Eggs prepared without added fat or spice

Healthy Fats

- Avocados
- Flaxseeds
- Olive oil
- Walnuts

Low-Fat Dairy Products

- Yogurt (Greek yogurt)
- Cottage cheese
- Skim milk
- Low-fat cheese

Fluids

- Water
- Broth

Fluids To Consume

1. Water: Adequate hydration is crucial for digestive health and overall well-being.
2. Herbal Teas: Non-caffeinated herbal teas can be soothing and hydrating.
3. Clear Broths: Broths made from vegetables or lean meats can provide hydration and some nutrients.
4. Coconut Water: Provides hydration and electrolytes.
5. Vegetable Juices: Low-sodium vegetable juices can contribute to fluid intake and provide some vitamins and minerals.

FOODS TO AVOID

Low-Fiber Foods

- Processed grains (white bread, white rice)
- Cereals high in sugar and low in fiber

Canned Fruits And Vegetables

- Canned fruits and vegetables in syrup or with added salt.

Fruit Juices

- Fruit juices without pulp

Refined Carbohydrates

- Pastries
- White pasta
- Instant noodles

Nuts And Seeds

- Peanuts
- Cashews
- Pistachios

Fatty Meats

- Bacon
- Sausages
- Processed meats (hot dogs, deli meats)

High-Fat Foods

- Fried foods
- Potato chips
- Fast food
- Butter

Spicy Or Highly Seasoned Foods

- Chili peppers
- Spicy sauces

Liquids To Avoid

1. Carbonated Beverages: High sugar content and gas-producing.
2. Alcohol: Can irritate the digestive system.